THE Democratic Party, militant and united behind an inspiring and intrepid leadership, faces with confidence the Presidential election of 1924.

It believes that its record of constructive and progressive legislation, of economy, efficiency, honesty and square dealing in the administration of Government, both in time of peace and in the crucial years of the World War, entitles it to a vote of confidence in November, particularly when its record of faithful service to all the people is contrasted with the failure of the Harding-Coolidge administration under control of the worst reactionary and Tory element in the Republican Party. The major issues may thus be briefly summed up:

Downward revision of the tariff, to reduce the cost of living and end the orgy of profiteering.

Labor is not a commodity. It is human. We favor collective bargaining and laws regulating hours of labor and conditions under which labor is performed.

We favor generous appropriations, honest management and sympathetic care and assistance in the hospitalization, rehabilitation and compensation of the veterans of all wars and their dependents.

Congress should make no laws respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the Government.
