

SCENES ON MAYOR BRYCE B. SMITH'S RED BRIDGE FARM

These photographs taken on the 200-acre farm of Mayor Bryce B. Smith, on One Hundred Tenth street east of Holmes road, give some idea of the beauty and comfort of one of Jackson county's finest estates. The pictures were taken by Roy Johnson and J. H. Wally, jr., of the Journal- Post staff.

MISS BETTY MARY SMITH, daughter of Mayor Smith, and her St. Bernard dog, Reggie.

ONE CORNER of the lake at sunset. The lake is more than 15 acres in area and is well stocked with game fish.

TOTEM POLE given to the mayor by Alaskan delegates to a national convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars, held in Kansas City several years ago.

ORNAMENTAL WELL back of the house on Red Bridge farm.

MAIN ENTRANCE to Mayor Bryce B. Smith's Red Bridge farm, showing the barns and house.

TROPHIES OF THE HUNT which have fallen victim to the mayor's hunting ability. These trophies are above the fireplace in the lodge.

LODGE, just west of the farm house. The lodge is completely air conditioned.

MAYOR BRYCE B. SMITH, cleaning a shotgun in a room of the lodge. The mayor is well known as a hunter of no small ability.

WATER TOWER

and barn on the site of the original Shawnee Indian trading post, which later was moved to its present site at Shawnee Mission in Johnson county, Kansas.

SPRING HOUSE and lily pool, just south of the lake on Red Bridge farm.