

Scenes at Outing of 1,200 Members of 'Commerce Family'

Employees of the Commerce Trust company and of banks associated with the company Saturday were guests of W. T. Kemper, chairman of the Commerce board, at a picnic at his Red Fox farm at One Hundred Fifty-second street and Holmes road.

1—A scene as the barbecue artists prepared one of the tables for the 1,200 guests, who included the employees' families.

2—W. T. Kemper, jr., who was the "caller" at an old-fashioned square dance.

3—Mr. Kemper himself as he appeared in the role of master of ceremonies.

4—James M. Kemper, president of the company, who aided his father as host.

5—Miss Pauline Thompson, winner of the bathing beauty contest.

6—Janies Mack, teller, who won the hog calling contest.
