

Democracy Publishing Co.
1806 BRYANT BUILDING
KANSAS CITY, MO.

June 18, 1935

Hon. Lloyd C. Stark
Louisiana, Missouri

Dear Mr. Stark:

At the suggestion of our Mr. George B. Freeman we are writing soliciting your consideration.

We wrote you under date of May 15th submitting for your consideration our publication, DEMOCRACY, and while we had an acknowledgement from your secretary stating that you were out of the City and that upon your return you would give our letter some attention and we, not having heard from you are again writing asking your indulgence in a matter we feel should attract your attention.

You will note the July issue carried a feature article on T. J. Pendergast, the acknowledged political leader of the State, and the next issue of DEMOCRACY, which will be off the press July 5th will feature James P. Aylward, and the front cover will contain his photograph. We intend to publish July 5th in the neighborhood of 15000 magazines which go into every part of the State. The Magazine will be placed in the hands of 1500 political employees and will contain news of a nature to command the attention and interest of all who receive it.

We are wondering if you would care to participate with us in this next issue. You can understand that the publishing of a magazine the type of DEMOCRACY entails considerable expense and we are forced from circumstances to approach an appeal to our friends.

May we suggest an advertisement from you, or if you prefer, as many of our good friends have done, permit us to send copies of the Magazine to some of your friends for the next year. We believe this to be the better plan, and trust you will not take exception to our suggesting this.