My dear Jim:

I want to thank you again for your courteous reception and for dropping by the hotel to see me While I was in Kansas City. Naturally, I hope that things will shape themselves so that you and I our work together closely from now on, and you may absolutely count on anything I have told you.

I regret that I happened in town when you were tied up with the celebration, but hope I did not discommode you too much.

Any time you want to see me about any matter, I can join you anywhere you say or can come to Kansas City.

With kind personal regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

LLOYD C. STARK.

P. S.

Since my return from a trip over the State, I have been back in my office checking up and everything looks fine from this end of the line. I heard yesterday that Colonel Bouchard has received another batch of letters on his poll and that they were all for Stark. I hope to see you again soon.

Please give my regards to the other boys and to Colonel T. J.
