

July 9, 1932.

Honorable George G. Vest,
Central National Bank Building,
St. Louis, Missouri.

Dear George:

I do not believe it will be possible for as to leave home next week. However, if you want to come here next week, I will have time enough to show you about town. I can go to Kansas City and St. Joseph I think about the 19th or 20th.

Greenwade tells me that he is under the impression that Pendergast will not endorse over seven or eight candidates for Congress. If that is true and you do not get on his slate, it would be advisable for you to spend some time in Kansas City calling on the leaders. Greenwade will write Pendergast again in your behalf.

I will write letters to my friends in St. Joseph immediately but do not think it vital that we go there together, but I will go there for you in any event about the 20th.

In a few days I will write a lot of letters out over the state in your behalf and will send you a list of the persons to whom I write.

I enclose a fancy document for your information.

Give me as much notice of your coming here as possible.

Sincerely yours,

EYM:EH
